MANY WEDDINGS.

Activity in Matrimonial Matters On All Sides.

Several Nuptial Events Reported And Others Announced For The Near Future.

Wood-Fairleigh.

Mr. Walker Wood, proprietor of the New Era, and Miss Midge Fairleigh will be married on December 5th.

Newman-Lewis.

The Louisville papers announce the approaching marriage of Miss Lucile Morton Lewis to Mr. Geo. R. Newman. The bride is a daughter of Rev. Jno. W. Lewis, presiding elder of the Louisville district M. E. Church South and is well known here. The groom is city editor of the Evening Post.

Bell-Holloway.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Dr. Austin Bell to Miss Cecil May Holloway, on Nov. 29th. The wedding will take place at Maple Grove, the home of Mrs. Sammie Fox Holloway, the bride's mother. Dr. Bell has recently located at Bell's, Ky., and has taken the practice of his brother, Dr. Jno. P. Bell, who recently retired from active practice. He served in the volunteer army as surgeon of the Third Regiment in Cuba and distinguished himself in his profession. He has graduated from the best medical schools in Kentucky. His bride-to-be is a lovely young woman, one of the most popular belles of the county.

WOOD-WHITE.

Marriage Took Place Near Macedonia Sunday Afternoon.

The marriage of Mr. Sam'l M. Wood and Miss Hymelia C. White, a popular young couple living near Macedonia, in North Christian, was solemnized Sunday afternoon. The event took place at the home of the bride's parents and Eld. G. W. Davis, of the Christian church, performed the ceremony.

STEWART-LADD.

Pretty Wedding Took Place Near Cerulean Sunday.

A pretty wedding took place near Cerulean Springs at 10 o'clock a. m., Sunday, the contracting parties being Mr. Columbus Stewart, a leading young Trigg county farmer, who lives not far from Gracy, and Miss Hattie Ladd, the pretty daughter of Mr. Freeman Ladd, one of Trigg's most substantial citizens. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's parents and was witnessed by a large crowd of friends and relatives of the bride and groom.

CARMAN-DEAZLEY.

Pretty Lafayette Widow Weds a Steamboat Man.

The many friends and acquaintances of Mrs. Sudie Deazley, of Lafayette, will be surprised to learn that she was married on the 7th inst., to Mr. Edward Carman, of New York, who is now operating a steamboat on the Mississippi river.

Mrs. Deazley, who was the widow of the late R. H. Deazley, left Lafayette in June last with her two children to visit her sister at Arkansas City, Ark. While there she met Mr. Carman, the match was made up and they were married at Greenville, Miss.

They will make their home in Arkansas City.

RAWLINS-ASKEW.

Popular Cadiz People Will Take the Marriage Vows.

Among the notable events in social circles for this week will be the marriage of Mr. T. C. Rawlins and Miss Mary E. Askeaw, at Cadiz, tomorrow. The marriage will take place at the Christian church in that place at 8 o'clock p. m. Elder Roger L. Clark will tie the nuptial knot.

Mr. Rawlins is a son of the late F. D. Rawlins, of Pembroke, and has been engaged in business in Cadiz for several years.

His bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. I. B. Askeaw, and is a lady possessed of much beauty and many rare charms. She is a sister of Mrs. Thos. H. Gaines, and after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gaines will entertain the bridal party at their pretty home in Cadiz.

HAS MENINGITIS

And Patient Reported Barely Alive on Yesterday.

Mr. John A. Cotton, of Texas, is dangerously ill at the home of his father, Mr. W. A. Cotton, near Larkin. He has spinal meningitis and was reported barely alive yesterday, Mr. Cotton moved from this county to Texas about ten years ago and returned here on the 10th inst., to visit his parents. Immediately on arrival he was taken sick.

WORK OF BURGLARS.

Store House Entered And Groceries Taken Therefrom.

Some time Sunday night burglars entered the grocery store of A. L. Young, on the corner of Jackson and Vine streets and carried off a lot of sugar, coffee, meat, canned goods, tobacco, etc., amounting in all to probably $15 or $20. They effected an entrance by breaking open one of the front windows. They left no clue.

SUES FOR DIVORCE.

Mrs. Broadus Asks Legal Separation From Her Husband.

Mrs. Lizzie Belle Broadus, through her next best friends, has filed suit for divorce from her husband, William Thomas Broadus. The petition states that they were married in this county Jan. 4, '96 and lived together until Oct. 6 of the same year. Failure to provide is alleged.

PROVENDER BURNED

South Christian Farmers Lose Hay And Corn.

Messrs. J. P. Nuckolls and P. V. Carter, Church Hill farmers, suffered the loss of several stacks of hay and some fencing by fire a few days ago. The supposition is that the dry grass near the railroad track caught from sparks from an engine and the hay stacks were thus ignited. Mr. Nuckolls estimates his loss at $250 and Mr. Carter's loss will probably be $75 on hay and fencing.

Mrs. Pinkham's Medicine Made a New Woman of Mrs. Kuhn.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 6100]
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I think it is my duty to write you expressing my sincere gratitude for the wonderful relief I have experienced by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried different doctors, also different kinds of medicine. I would feel better at times, then would be as bad as ever."

"For eight years I was a great sufferer. I had falling of the womb and was in such misery at my monthly periods I could not work but a little before I would have to lie down. Your medicine has made a new woman of me. I can now work all day and not get tired. I thank you for what you have done for me. I shall always praise your medicine to all suffering women."

—MRS. E. E. KUBN, GERRIEMO, OHIO.

"I have taken eight bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used two packages of your Sassafras Wash, also some of the Liver Pills, and I can say that your remedies will do all that you claim for them. Before taking your remedies I was very bad with womb trouble, was nervous, had no ambition, could not sleep, and my food seemed to do me no good. Now I am well, and your medicine has cured me. I will gladly recommend your medicine to every one wherever I go."

Mrs. M. L. SHANE, OUR MARRIAGE, MISS.

CUT HER THROAT.

Mrs. John Woosley Attempts to Kill Herself.

Slashed Her Throat With a Razor But is Still Alive—Will Likely Recover.

Mrs. John Woosley attempted to take her life with her brother's razor, near Sinking Fork, Sunday morning. She left her home some weeks ago and went to the home of her brother, Mr. M. M. Cavanaugh. Sunday morning Mr. Cavanaugh got out his razor to shave and while he was out of the room she took the razor and went out in the garden and slashed her throat from ear to ear and also cut both arms at the elbow, cutting to the bone.

She was found a few minutes later, unconscious from loss of blood. Such steps as could be taken were resorted to to stop the flow of blood until Dr. J. B. Jackson, of this city, could be summoned by telephone. He found her still alive and proceeded to give her prompt surgical aid.

The jugular vein was laid bare but not severed and the wounds are not necessarily fatal. Though very weak from loss of blood Mrs. Woosley was better yesterday and chances are favorable for her recovery. Domestic troubles were the cause.

SIXTY-FOUR ADDITIONS.

Baptist Revival Results in Many Conversions.

The revival at the Baptist Church had up to Sunday night resulted in 64 additions to the church and there is no abatement in the interest. The meeting did not close Sunday night as intended, but will continue while the present great interest is manifested. Evangelist Williams has proved to be a popular pulpit orator and his crowds continue to increase at the meeting progresses. Twenty of the converts were baptized Saturday night.

INDIGNATION MEETING.

Republicans and Their Allies Chew the Same Rag.

The long-threatened indignation meeting materialized at the Court House yesterday afternoon. Bills were distributed, bells rung and rumors sent out to bring in those "indignant" at the action of the County Election Commission in refusing to count the vote in the Court House precinct where no legal election was held.

SET FOR NOV. 29.

Examining Trial of Reuben Pitzer Charged With Shooting.

The examining trial of Reuben Pitzer, charged with shooting and wounding John Berry, a tenant on his farm, near Bluff Spring, was called yesterday and continued until Wednesday, Nov. 29. Soon after the shooting Pitzer surrendered to the authorities and was released on his own recognizance. He is now out on similar conditions.

DEATH AT ASYLUM.

Remains Shipped to Hawesville For Interment Yesterday.

L. Thomas, an asylum patient, died Saturday night of Cerebral softening. He was 57 years old and was sent to the institution from Hawesville just a week ago. The remains were shipped to his old home yesterday for interment.

The Gobel law was passed to prevent frauds in Kentucky and we shall soon see whether or not it will accomplish the desired result. Many a thief has made a grab who failed to get away with his plunder.

Schmutz, candidate for Governor, received only 5 votes. * Not counted.

The table in one or two precincts is not complete as to the scattering vote, but the footings are official. The precinct not counted gave 252 for Taylor, 157 for Gobel and 7 for Brown, though 238 of the ballots were returned as defective but not opened. The totals in the other races were as follows:

For Lieutenant Governor, Marshall Rep., 2400; Beckham Dem., 2777; Browder, Pop., 29; Johnston, 99; Zeigler 33.
For Attorney General, Pratt, Rep., 3398; Breckenridge, Dem., 2777; Tanner, 102.
For Auditor, Sweeney, Rep., 3398; Coulter, Dem., 2769; Pasteur, 98; Graham, Pop., 33; Bernard 34.

For Commissioner of Agriculture, Throckmorton 3394, Hall 2783, Vandever 94, Hanna 30, Carpenter 33.
For Railroad Commissioner, Dempsey, Dem., 2784; McMillen, Pop., 345. At Longview 118 Republican votes were certified to the Populist candidate, evidently a mistake.

THAT'S WHO.

Who hesitated not with her wags,
Until her heart was all ablaze
With love, and every nerve appeared
To be like lightning, double charged Lucinda.

Who listened to my earnest plea,
And warned me not to go to bed
I will call me Sam and said
I'd sort of turned her little head
My sweetie.

Who let me kiss her one sweet night
Beneath the moon's white metal light
And said she'd ever cling to me
As clings the hawk unto a tree
My betrothed.

Who left the altar at my side,
Dressed in the trappings of a bride,
And said again and yet again,
I was the king of all the moon?
My wife.

And now, who often calls me down
Upon her face a vicious frown,
And if to answer her I dare,
Envenoms her fingers in my hair?
Same girl.

DOLLY RIVERS.

The malicious grin on Nina Jansen's face as she informed Dolly Rivers that Miss Tabitha Primrose wanted to see her at once told Dolly plainly as words that Nina had been telling tales.

Edna and the other ten members of the "Alpha Secret Society" had also jumped to a similar conclusion, and they were an anxious lot of young ladies as they waited for Dolly's return from that "star chamber," the Misses Primrose study.

They had not long to wait. Dolly reappeared in ten minutes, a bright red spot in either cheek and a haughty pose to her head which told of righteous indignation. The dinner bell rang just at that moment, and as the Misses Primrose were veritable martinet in the matter of punctuality the Alphas had to curb their burning curiosity till the evening meal was over.

As the saucers of canned cherries (each supplemented with a thin slab of sawdust-pongcake) were passed around there was a quick exchange of glances among the plotters, which, luckily, no one noticed. The meal over, the ten Alphas, as if by concerted signal, made straight for Dolly's room. Then the door was locked, the keyhole stuffed, and all conversation was carried on in a whisper.

"Well," said Edna, as they all huddled together, "well, tell us all about it. I suppose that red-headed thing, Nina, has been telling tales as usual."

"Yes," replied Dolly, "I'm afraid she has, for Miss Tabitha said that it had just come to her ear that a secret society had been formed of half seemed to be making it its chief business to find fault with the management of the school. She says she has never approved of school societies, and of course after what she has just heard she must insist that our society be immediately done away with. If she finds out that we are holding secret meetings she will suspend all the members for a month. There," added Dolly, "that's what we have to thank Miss Nina for!"

Eloquent silence reigned for half a minute; then Edna spoke up.

"Does Miss Tabitha forbid our visiting you in your room, Dolly?"

"No," replied that young lady, "at least, nothing was said about it."

"Good!" ejaculated Edna, in a stage whisper. "Then I propose we go right on with our plan to confiscate the canned cherries. Remember, each girl is to get rid of two cans. The empty cans are to be hid in Dolly's bookcase till we have a good opportunity to get them out of the house without notice. I have already a half plan for getting revenge on Miss Tabitha and teaching Nina a lesson at the same time."

The girls besought Edna to tell them about her great plan, but she only smiled and shook her head. "Wait," was all she would say.

That night just before bedtime one Alpha after another stole down to the storeroom and carried off two cans of cherries. As they were kept on a top shelf by themselves, and as the next evening was "their night off," stewed prunes appeared instead, the girls, rather thought their absence would not be noticed for at least 24 hours. And very likely such would have been the case but for that prying Nina, who felt that something was going on and made it her business to find out all about it.

Nina Jansen was the daughter of a poor country clergyman, and as such the Misses Primrose took her at a reduced rate. And these excellent ladies did not let Nina forget the fact. Nina was a toady by nature, and in her efforts to curry favor with the teachers had made herself very unpopular with the other girls. Nor was she by any means a favorite with the Misses Primrose. For though they often found her useful, they did not like her.

But to return to Edna's great plan. Every afternoon she had overheard Nina remark to another girl that she expected a big box of goodies from home on Friday. It was then Tuesday. Now Nina knew just as well as anybody that midnight spreads were strictly forbidden. The Misses Primrose always insisted that when a box of edibles came from home they should be brought down to the table and shared by the others. The punishment for disobeying was the confiscation of the contents of the box.

"Hi!" muttered Edna to herself. "Nina's box is to arrive on Friday. I wonder if it will hold—but dear me! How can I get the box before Nina sees it? Ah! I think I know how I can manage it!" and Edna smiled softly to herself.

The next afternoon, accompanied by Dolly, Edna paid a visit to the express office. "I am expecting a box," she told the clerk. Then she smiled at the fellow as he added: "It's from home, you know—full of good things—and I don't want the teachers to know about it. Now if you could manage to have the expressman call at half-past three o'clock on Friday I will be there to receive it. The school goes out for a walk with the teachers at that time."

The clerk laughed. "I understand. All right, I'll attend to the matter." He said, good-naturedly: "What name, please?"

"Miss Nina Jansen," replied Edna, composedly.

The clerk looked up quickly. "You're not Miss Jansen. I know her by sight, and—"

Edna was equal to the emergency. "That's all right. I'm simply attending to this matter for Miss Jansen. She was too busy to attend to it herself."

"Oh!" said the clerk, "I see."

Though neither Edna nor Dolly would go into particulars, the Alphas knew that the crisis was to come on Friday afternoon or evening, and, needless to say, they were in a state of suppressed excitement. Ever since the confiscation of the cherries the girls had been busy getting rid of them, a few at a time until now, Thursday evening, nothing remained but the empty cans, snugly hid away behind Dolly's rows of books.

That same afternoon an anonymous note was placed on the study table. It read: "All the canned cherries have been taken from the storeroom. Ask the Alphas about it. They can tell you."

Miss Tabitha frowned fiercely when she read this communication, just before dinner. Her first impulse was to call up the whole school and have the matter out with them. But she finally decided that a better plan would be to "lie low" and await developments.

When it came time for the usual walk on Friday afternoon, Edna seemed to be suffering with such a fearful headache that of course it was impossible for her to stir a step. All the others marched out, and Dolly, as usual, brought up the rear, walking between the Misses Primrose.

Now both these ladies regarded Dolly as the leading spirit in all that the Alphas might do, and they thought this a good opportunity to ferret out of her the truth regarding the missing cherries. So they went at her hammer and tongs. Dolly, however, had had her instructions from Edna, and now having been accused by her teachers of complicity in the matter she turned on them with superb scorn and said: "If you believe me or any of my friends in blame, why don't you search our rooms?"

"Oh! I dare say you've made away with the cans by this!" retorted Miss Tabitha.

"Do you? Well, I don't," was Dolly's quick reply. "I am quite sure that you will find the cans, but you must make a thorough search of every room, Miss Tabitha." Dolly went on. "I beg of you to do as I suggest, and, further, to ask Nina and me to accompany you while making the search."

"Very well, Dolly, I will do as you suggest," said Miss Tabitha at last, and, leaving her sister in charge of the girls, she called to Nina to accompany her and Dolly back to the school at once.

In the meantime Nina's box arrived. Edna, who had only been shamming sickness, had been on the watch for it, and she opened the front door before the bell was rung, and so not even the servant knew of its arrival. It was a heavy box, but Edna managed to carry it up stairs. If anybody had been near they would have heard considerable ripping and hammering during the next ten minutes. Then with a very red face and dancing eyes Edna carried the box into Nina's room and left it in a conspicuous place.

Then Edna went back to the room, and was the invalid once more.

It was a thorough search which Miss Tabitha made, but nothing was found to show who had taken the cherries. At last they came to Nina's room. Miss Primrose immediately saw the box in the center of the room, and she also noticed Nina's uneasiness at the same time.

That young lady was saying to herself: "Dear me, if Miss Tabitha sees the contents I won't be able to have my midnight spread."

"Ah! What have we here?" inquired Miss Tabitha, eyeing the fatal box.

"Oh, nothing; just some books from home, that's all!" declared Nina.

"Open the box, please, and let me see what sort of books your parents have sent you. Surely you do not object?" said Miss Tabitha.

"Oh, no, indeed!" cried Nina. "But won't some other time do just as well? I shall have to go down stairs and fetch the hammer."

"Get the hammer and I'll wait here," was all Miss Primrose said.

Of course Nina had nothing to do but obey. With trembling fingers she worked the nails loose, then with a wrench she pulled off the cover. Now, Nina did not expect to see books in that box, and of course she wished she had not told a story about it. But when she gazed at what was now revealed to her she fairly gasped. The box contained nothing but ten empty cans which had once held the cherries.

As she stood there dazed she heard Miss Tabitha saying to her in an awed voice: "Miss Nina Jansen, I will see you in the study in half an hour!"

Of course Nina declared that she knew nothing about how those cans had come there, but after her lie about the books she could not get the Misses Primrose to believe her.

Two days later Nina left the school, never to return, and the Alpha society, having got rid of both Nina and the cherries, quietly went out of existence. They certainly were hard on Nina, but they felt that the end justified the means.—N. Y. Herald.

THEORIES OF DREAMS.

Fecularities Noted But Not Yet Scientifically Explained.

"There is no modern theory about dreams," said a New Orleans physician, "or, rather, there are five or six, and they differ so radically both in premises and conclusions as to leave the subject more of a mystery than ever. It is undeniable, however, that the psychologists have collected an immense amount of valuable data, which, of course, is the first step toward arriving at a solution. Many of the things they have noted are remarkable, and I find several enumerated in the last issue of a French medical monthly. It is said, for instance, that one can dream of any given object by thinking about it intently for four or five hours before retiring, and then dismissing it from the mind. It should be something unusual or fantastic. Things dwelt upon just before going to sleep are rarely dreamed about. Another curious statement was that the familiar dream of falling can generally be induced by tying a handkerchief tightly around the forearm and leaving it on when one goes to bed. It was also noted that bright colors are rarely seen in dreams. They

A WHOLE VILLAGE

Attacked by Grip—One Family Escapes by Using Per-na.

WINONA, STARK CO., IND.
During the winter I and my family of six were taken with grippe. The disease was very prevalent at that time in the village where I resided, nearly everyone being sick with it. Our doctors treated it as best they could, but were very unsuccessful in the treatment of it. As soon as my family were taken sick I went to the drugstore and bought six bottles of Per-na, and we all took it according to the directions given on the bottle, and although our cases seemed to be more than usually violent in the outset, yet our recovery was prompt, and we were all well much sooner than those who were treated by the regular physicians.

Many people died of this grippe during this epidemic, and few if any were sick so short a time as myself and family. After we were all well we had one bottle of Per-na left.

are almost invariably cool, nervous and hardly ever remembered. We can recall dreaming of a house, for example, and describe its architecture exactly, but we are seldom able to tell what color it was. The only hues remembered are the variable ones, like the green of trees or the blue of the sky. Things that might be any color are usually no color at all. The author attempts no explanation. ## The Largest Sunday School.

The largest Sunday school in the world is at Stockport, England. It was opened in 1805, but many additions have been made to it, until now it has 80 schoolrooms, some of which will seat more than 300 scholars. The large hall will accommodate 3,000. There are about 6,000 scholars connected with the school, requiring the services of 500 teachers.

Street Sweeping by Electricity.

Street sweeping by electricity has been introduced in St. Louis. The appliance is said to be of ordinary construction, save that the broom wheel in the rear is operated by electricity, which is found to be more effective than if the brushes derived their rotation from the road wheels.

Why He Needed a Rest.

Toward the close of a long sitting in an English court, when another case was called, the leading counsel rose and loudly requested that it might be postponed until next morning. "On what ground?" snapped the judge. "I have been arguing a case all day in court B, and am completely exhausted," explained the lawyer. "Very well," said the judge, "we'll take the rest." Another lawyer rose and also pleaded for adjournment. "What, are you exhausted, too?" asked the judge, angrily. "What have you been doing?" "My lord," said the lawyer, in a weary voice, "I have been in court B, listening to a learned brother."

It will only cost you 50 cents extra to ride all day in a Cotton Belt Parlor Café Car (25 cents for a half day). Seated in a large revolving arm chair with plenty of space around you, you can enjoy as much freedom and ease as you please. If you are a smoker you will enjoy the large smoking room with its arm chairs and couch. The ladies will delight in the splendid ladies' lounging room, with its lounge and inviting arm chairs, and its roomy dressing room adjoining. You can have your meals in this car at any hour you want them; order most anything you want, from a porterhouse steak or a spring chicken down to a sandwich, take as long as you please to eat it, and you will only have to pay for what you order.

The Cotton Belt is the direct line to Texas. It carries passengers from Cairo and Memphis to Texas without change. Direct connections are made with its long lines for all parts of Texas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma and the Far West. Write and tell us where you are going and when you will leave, and we will tell you what route will suit you best, which route to take to make the best time connections, and will send you an interesting little booklet, "A Trip to Texas."

MONUMENTS.

The White Bronze Monument, beautiful in design, appropriate in color, never tarnishes, ships or cracks, and science to its long search for something that would stand the frost of this climate for monumental purposes has at last found it in the White Bronze. It fills every wish. It is a beauty to behold. It will perpetuate the memory of loved ones that future generations may learn their title deeds of kindness upon the graves after we have gone to our reward.

TALL AMERICANS.

Points of Advantage We Have Over Foreigners.

Julian Ralph, who is able to see things with an Englishman's eye, after coming for some years absent from his ship, says that the tallness of American children is surprising. He sees thousands of them in London and their skyward increase is the more noticeable because they are in contrast with the average British boy who is apt to be a runt. The height of our women and their capacious development and superior health are said to impress foreigners on their first arrival in America. These facts probably prove that America is a good country to live in, that we have room to grow and are taking advantage of the opportunity. We are still, as a people, keeping to the old notion that it is well to have a bit of ground about the house; our health boards insist that the factory and school shall supply a certain number of feet of air to each occupant; we are multiplying play grounds and parks, though as to play grounds we have not half enough of them yet; we are spending every year a longer time in the country and are buying or renting little bits among the hills, or on the shore, and in the matter of diet no people live so generously as the Americans.

We are the only people who have meat on the table constantly. We have fruits of all kinds by the ton, our bread is made so cheap and good that the city housekeeper never thinks of making it any more, and has probably forgotten how, and as to our vegetables, we have the greatest variety enjoyed by any nation. If you live in England you cannot have baked beans, or green corn, or pumpkin pie or dandelions, or spaghetti, or a whole lot of things that grow right here and are full of nutriment. And again, we have not, as a people, put our children at trades in their early teens. We have kept them at school as long as our means enabled us to do so, and have encouraged them to play more or less in their free hours and to walk and swim.

But, especially, we have made their position easy for the women who are their mothers. There are no other women who have so easy a time as ours, unless it may be the inmates of a Turkish harem, who are not supposed to do anything but grow fat and try to keep their looks. In other lands the woman works early and late, she toils in the fields like a common laborer, she fights off a common poverty by means that astonish the visitor from America and she often succumbs to an immoral life as the easier and more remunerative avoidance of it. The morality of our home life is another element in the health and growth that produces big, well appearing citizens of both sexes, and if it is true that the American is taking life less seriously than he used to and is trying to get more sane enjoyment out of it and spending less time in work and fret, the business man stands a chance of taking on substance and being as tall as his daughter.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Gossips and the Gossiping Habit.

Gossip is a bad habit that very few are entirely free from. Gossip is like swearing; every respectable person tries to quit it. People who are known as gossips are always cheap people, and they are never respected, for the reason that anyone who finds amusement in gossip, lacks intelligence, fairness and every other quality that makes men and women worthy of respect. A person who gossips does the person or herself more harm than the person gossiped about; people have learned, after long experience, that gossips usually exaggerate, and that a gossip is always unprincipled, and always idle and vicious. If it were possible for gossips to ruin reputations there would be no such thing as a good reputation, for no one ever escapes being talked about. When a vicious person has a grudge against anyone, his first attempt is to injure him by "talking about" him. Every third gossip about honest men, and honest men are not injured, because worthy people have learned to look upon gossip with distrust. People have learned that every gossip has some hidden history that is discreditable, and gossip is therefore damaging to the person who retails it.—Albion Globe.

AS IT'S DONE IN AMERICA.

London to Adopt Our Way of Having Shoes Shined.

A very simple custom, which is threatened with speedy extinction is shoeblackening in the streets of London. Hitherto, and even to-day, every one who wants to have his boots blacked in London streets must perform a task up what time the red-jacketed man who, having got a new pair through his shrill cries of "Shine yer boots, sir?" operates on the dusty or muddy footgear. But why should one stand when boots have been invented, and why should one be bothered by passers-by when such things as shoes exist? When you come to think of it, there is more reason in having your boots blacked or having your trousers hemmed sewed on in the public streets. This extraordinary discovery has already been made abroad, and in France, Spain, Italy and other continental countries one walks into a little open room, seats one's self down on a comfortable chair, and while enjoying a cigarette and a peep at the morning or evening paper, one's boots or shoes are polished with perfect comfort to the wearer. Our consuls across the Atlantic have also discovered and for years enjoyed this luxurious and decent manner of having their boots blacked, and now we learn that they are going to be so good as to confer both upon us more old-fashioned folk in England.

The American system of bootblackening is practically what we have described above, but, as it will soon be in active operation in London, to be followed doubtless by the more enterprising provincial towns, it may not be amiss to give a more detailed description of the American system. First of all, then, the boot cleaning is not done out of doors, but in an appropriately-fitted room, where one is not subjected to the jostling of the passer-by nor the rude stare of the vulgar crowd—a thing which will be much appreciated by those of a retiring or nervous disposition. Secondly, you are seated in a comfortable chair instead of being somewhat unsteadily balanced on one leg while the shoe on the other is being polished. On either side of the chair is an inclined footrest upon which, of course, the feet are firmly planted during the operation of cleaning. We presume that smoking will not be prohibited, and, as newspapers will be provided free, reading can be indulged in "all the time," as our cousins would say. Thus the annoyance of having one's boots blacked in a busy street will be turned into the enjoyment of five minutes' rest, "far from the madding crowd."

But this is not all. If what we hear proves true, the system of polishing will be altogether as new and as beneficial as the chair itself. Hitherto but little attention has been paid to the proper removal of old coating of blacking or of accumulated dirt on the boots. Now all is to be altered, the shoes will first be scraped of all such accumulations, then they will be sponged and dried before the new coat of blacking or polish be applied. When all is done a final artistic touch is given with a specially prepared cloth. Thus it will be seen that the new system—at least new to England—has much to commend it; indeed, its advantages are so obvious that the only wonder is why on earth it was never thought of before!—St. James Budget.

THE ONE-LAUGH PIECE.

And the More Substantial Fun We Enjoy Over and Over Again.

"There are some things," said Mr. Steggleby, "that seem to have just one laugh in them, and no more; I've had a good, lively laugh, if not a downright hearty one, out of some piece, and then when I came to read it over again found it as dry as a bone. It had one laugh in it, but that was all; it was a good idea, but light and thin, and without much real substance."

And then I've read things that I could laugh at time and again, that I really enjoyed reading over. These are the things that have some real substance; some striking idea that saturates the whole, something that amuses us and fills us up with joy, as we may be sure it did the creator who put it forth. For such things as these, that stick to our ribs, and cheer us and make us hearty, we are truly grateful; yes, indeed, we are for the one-laugh piece, for one laugh is far better than none."—N. Y. Sun.

Vice-President Hobart has had a relapse and is very near to death.

President McKinley is coming to Nashville to meet the returning Tennesseans.

There is no better Congressional material in the Ashland district than James Andrew Scott.

The Glasgow Times has absorbed the Glasgow News. Jim Richardson remains at the head of the consolidation.

In his dying moments Congressman Evan E. Settle was delirious and talked of the campaign. The last word he uttered was "Goebel."

Bayonet Bill Bradley should be given to understand that military elections do not go in Kentucky. The wife of a Louisville soldier should be thrown out.

Blair Forester, Gov. Bradley's blood-trusty assistant adjutant general, has been asked in time to escape participation in any possible bloodshed.

The British have landed 37,000 soldiers in South Africa and are rushing them to the front. Gen. White says so far he has been able to hold his own at Ladysmith.

The shooting stars failed to materialize last week and now the scientists say that the show was billed a year too soon and that it will be pulled off next November.

Debow went to sleep in the court room in Louisville the other day, where the election board was in session, and snored so noisily that he had to be awakened by a policeman.

The death roll of the First Tennessee Regiment while in the Philippines was thirty, including Col. Smith and Chaplain Leland. The regiment is now at San Francisco and will return home in a body.

Senator Jno. M. Thurston, of Nebraska, was married at Washington Saturday to Miss Lora Purman, a highly gifted young woman. The Senator had been a widower for some years.

Some of the tissue ballots used in Johnson county have reached Frankfort and are so thin that the stencil mark shows through when the paper has been folded twice. The election held there was illegal beyond a doubt.

Clarence Greathouse, a Kentuckian, who was U. S. Consul General to Kiangwa, Japan, from 1886 to 1890, died at Seoul Oct. 21. At the time he died Mr. Greathouse was adviser to the Korean Government, a position he had held for ten years.

Out in Iowa the other night a young soldier named McCauley returned from the Philippines and was given a reception by his home people. One feature of the entertainment was that he was surrounded and mobbed by 100 of the prettiest girls in town. He stood it like a man.

There are some Democrats not yet converted to the belief that the Chicago platform is in the same class as the Declaration of Independence, but there is no doubt that recent and transpiring events give great point to the instrument's declaration concerning "government by injunction."—Louisville Times.

Maj. Henry Clay McDowell, the noted horseman, of Lexington, who married a grand-daughter of Henry Clay, died last week of Bright's disease. When the Kentucky Press Association met at Lexington in 1892 Maj. McDowell entertained the association in a body at Ashland, the historic home of Henry Clay. He was a gentleman of learning and culture and a citizen of high character and strict in-

If the Legislature desires to hunt out and punish all the frauds committed in the last election, there is a field for work in Christian county. In a spirit of conservatism the board of election commissioners only inquired into the more serious charges brought to its notice. In several large Republican districts there were irregularities passed over that are well worth investigation by the Legislature. For instance at Landon's precinct, where Taylor had 103 majority, there were 3 more votes counted for Governor than were shown by the stubs to have been cast. There were only 260 ballots torn out and of these two were rejected ballots and yet 261 were counted. The county commissioners took off one vote from the leading ticket, leaving two spoiled ballots still counted for somebody in a strong Republican precinct. Whether it was an attempt at ballot-box stuffing or a poor display of mathematics is still an undecided question. In Gordonfield precinct, where Taylor had 66 majority, two Republicans remained in the room during the count, the challenger refusing to vacate when the inspector came in. This was a plain violation of law that was not acted upon. There were also irregularities in all the city precincts that afforded good grounds for throwing out the whole city, but only one precinct, in which the law was so flagrantly violated to be overlooked, was thrown out.

Brave, brainy Evan Settle gave his life for the party he loved and honored. He threw himself into the thick of the fight for the people and wore out his health and strength by constant service on the stump. It was conceded that his speeches were the best made in the campaign and he was ever in demand. He was suffering with nervous prostration when the campaign ended and he died last Friday from overwork. A man of talents, an orator among orators, a statesman of broad views and a Democrat ever loyal and true, his death is a severe blow to the party at this time.

Charlie Bronston's ambition has always been to represent his district in Congress. Bill Owens succeeded in getting in once, but proved to be the only one-termer the district has had in a generation. Breckinridge is also a Has-been and there would have been a fine opening for Bronston if he had not bolted at the eleventh hour. In the recent campaign. An able-bodied kicker can probably find employment at Lexington by calling at the Brownie headquarters.

The decision of Judge S. E. Jones—who by the way is the man who took Senator Goebel's place on the Democratic State Committee—is not an unexpected outcome of the Nelson county muddle. The certificates of the precinct officers were printed W. P. Taylor, instead of W. S. Taylor and 1,008 votes were so certified. Judge Jones orders these votes to be given to W. S. Taylor, but the case will go to the Court of Appeals this week.

The Democrats in the coming Legislature are going after Judge Toney's scalp. He will be impeached for his unwarranted and outrageous interference with the late election. He is in a great measure responsible for the martial law that prevailed and that may result in the throwing out of the entire vote of Jefferson county.

There was no "typographical error" about the tissue ballots used in the Republican counties of Knox and Johnson, that gave Taylor 2300 majority. It was an open defiance of the secret ballot provision of the constitution and the election was clearly illegal.

LAW GOVERNING CONTESTS.

Course to Be Pursued by the General Assembly.

Section 8 reads: "When the election of a governor, or lieutenant governor is contested, a board for determining the contest shall be formed in the manner following:

"First, on the third day after the organization of the general assembly, which meets next after the election, the senate shall select, by lot, three of its members, and the house of representatives shall select, by lot, eight of its members, and the eleven so selected, shall constitute a board, seven of whom shall have power to act.

"Second, in making the selection by lot, the name of each member present shall be written on a separate piece of paper, every such piece being as nearly similar to the other as may be. Each piece shall be rolled up, so the name thereon cannot be seen or any particular piece be ascertained by feeling. The whole, so prepared, shall be placed by the clerk in a box, on his table, and after it has been well shaken and the papers therein well intermixed, the clerk shall draw out one paper, which shall be opened and read aloud by the presiding officer, and so on until the required number is obtained. The persons whose names are so drawn shall be members of the board.

"Third, The members of the board so chosen by the two houses shall be sworn by the speaker of the house of representatives to try the contested election and give true judgment thereon, according to the evidence unless dissolved before rendering judgment.

"Fourth—The board shall, within 24 hours after its election, meet, appoint its chairman and assign a day for hearing the contest, and adjourn from day to day as its business may require.

"Fifth—If any person so selected shall swear that he cannot, without great personal inconvenience, serve on the board, or that he feels an undue bias for or against either of the parties, he may be excused by the house from which he was chosen from serving on the board, and if it appears that a person elected is related to either party, or is liable to any proper objection on the score of its partiality, he shall be excused.

"Sixth—Any deficiency in the proper number so created shall be supplied by another draw from the box.

"Seventh—The board shall have the power to send for persons, papers and records, to issue attachments therefor, signed by its chairman or clerk, and issue commissions for taking proof.

"Eighth—When it shall appear that the candidates receiving the highest number of votes given have received an equal number the right to the office shall be determined by lot, under the direction of the board. When the person returned is found not to have been legally qualified to receive his office at the time of his election, a new election shall be ordered until the vacancy, provided, the first two years of his term shall not have expired. Where another than the person returned shall be found to have received the highest number of legal votes given, such other shall be adjudged to be the person elected and entitled to the office.

"Ninth—No decision shall be made but by the vote of six members. The decision of the board shall not be final nor conclusive. Such decision shall not be reported to the two houses of the general assembly, for the further action of the general assembly shall then determine such contest.

"Tenth—If a new election is required it shall be immediately ordered by proclamation of the speaker of the house of representatives to take place within six weeks thereafter, and on a day not sooner than 30 days thereafter.

"Eleventh—When a new election is ordered the incumbent adjudged not to be entitled, his power shall immediately cease, and if the office is not adjudged to another it shall be declared to be vacant.

"Twelfth—If any member of the board willfully fails to attend its session he shall be reported to the house to which he belongs, and thereupon such house shall, in its discretion, punish him by fine and imprisonment, or both.

"Thirteenth—If no decision of the board is given during the session, colors are rarely seen in dreams. They be dissolved unless, by joint resolution of the two houses it is empowered to continue longer."

Fatal Accident.

Dr. B. F. Hadley, a prominent young Clarksville dentist, in attempting to board a street car last Thursday night, fell and was so badly crushed that death resulted in a few hours.

Tetter, Salt-Rheum and Eczema.

The intense itching and smarting incident to these diseases, is instantly allayed by applying Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment. Many very bad cases have been permanently cured by it. It is equally efficient for itching piles and a favorable remedy for sore nipples, chapped hands, chilblains, frost bites and chronic nose eczema. 25 cts. per box. For sale by R. C. Hardwick.

An expert witness is one that has opinions no one else can understand. Chamberlain's Pain Balm Cures Others Why Not You?

My wife has been using Chamberlain's Pain Balm, with good results, for a lame shoulder that has pained her continually for nine years. We have tried all kinds of medicines and doctors without receiving any benefit from any of them. One day we saw an advertisement of this medicine and thought of trying it, which we did with the best of satisfaction. She has used only one bottle and her shoulder is almost well.—ANORA L. ## Used by British Soldiers in Africa.

Capt C. G. Dennison is well known all over Africa as commander of the forces that captured the famous rebel Ghalibe. Under date of Nov. 4, 1897, from "Yrburn, Bechuanaland," he writes: "Before starting on the last campaign I bought a quantity of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used myself when troubled with bowel complaint, and had given to my men, and in every case it proved most beneficial." DR. Cady's CONDITION POWDERS, are just what a horse needs when in bad condition. Tonic, blood purifier and vermifuge. They are not food but medicine and the best in use to put a horse in prime condition. Price 25 cents per package. For sale by R. C. Hardwick.

Somehow bald statements are not regarded as smooth.

Not a Surprise.

It will not be a surprise to any who is at all familiar with the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, to know that people everywhere take pleasure in relating their experience in the use of that splendid medicine and in telling of the benefit they have derived from it, but add it has cured, of threatened attacks of pneumonia it has averted and of the children it has saved from attacks of croup and whooping cough. It is a grand, good medicine. For sale by R. C. Hardwick Druggist.

WILL SEND $2.50 FREE

To Each of Our Readers. Franklin Miles, M.D., LL.B., the Celebrated Chicago Specialist, Will Send $2.50 Worth of His New Special Treatment Free.

That Dr. Miles is one of the world's most successful physicians is proven by hundreds of testimonials from well-known people. One patient cured after failure of eleven Grand Rapids physicians, two after having been given up by six and seven Chicago physicians, another after one of the leading doctors in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago failed. Thousands of testimonials are on request.

The late Prof. J. S. Jewell, M.D., editor of the Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases, published at Chicago, advised Dr. Miles to "by all means publish your surprising results." Prof. J. P. Ross, M.D., President of the Rush Medical College, wrote in 1874: "Dr. Miles has taken three courses of my private instruction in diseases of the heart and lungs." Col. N. G. Parker, Ex-Treasurer of South Carolina, says: "I believe Dr. Miles to be an attentive and skillful physician in a field which requires the best qualities of head and heart." Col. A. M. Tucker, late General Manager of N. Y. L. E. & W. system of railways, says: "Dr. Miles' success as a physician has been phenomenal." Col. E. B. Spiller, of the 9th Regulars, U. S. A., San Diego, Cal., says: "Your Special Treatment has certainly worked wonders when all else failed. I had employed the best medical talent and had spent $2,000. Hundreds of other endorsements from prominent persons could be given would space permit.

When an experienced physician offers to give away $10,000 worth of a New Treatment for diseases of the heart, nerves, stomach, or dropsy, it is conclusive evidence that he has great faith in it. And we have the words of prominent men and women freely testify to his unusual skill and the superiority of his New Special Treatment, his liberality is certainly worthy of serious consideration.

The new system of special treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary methods.

As all afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of treatment especially prepared for their case, free, with full directions, we would advise them to send for it at once. Address Dr. FRANKLIN MILES, S. E. cor. State and Adams Sts., Chicago.

A Brilliant Success.

Remember that the dazzlingly brilliant success, Della Rocca and the New York Casino—1492, will appear at at Holland's Opera House to-morrow night. This is said to be a superb and magnificent production, with pretty girls, pretty dances, and pretty dances, making it all in all one of the grandest productions before the public.

New Pensions.

BRYAN AS A SENATOR.

Subject for Talk Among Washington Politicians.

Washington, Nov. 17.—The prospects of having William J. Bryan in the senate is now engaging Washington politicians. The announcement of the fatal illness of Senator Hayward of Nebraska indicates that a vacancy may occur, which the Populist governor would fill temporarily by appointment.

Ex-Senator W. V. Allen would undoubtedly secure this appointment if he wished it; otherwise Col. Bryan would be the man. The legislature next year would be called upon to elect two senators, as Thurston's term will have expired. Under the present political conditions in Nebraska the fusionists would probably control, and in that case Bryan and Allen would probably be the senators, unless Bryan were elected president. Their relations are close.

Ex-Senator Allen is so devoted to Mr. Bryan's political fortunes that it would not be surprising to hear that he encouraged Bryan's appointment temporarily as senator, for the prestige it would give the latter, leaving the future to take care of his (Allen's) interests.

BENNETTSTOWN BUDGET.

Items From South Christian Chronicle by "Buck".

Bennettstown, Ky., Nov. 20.—The protracted meeting in progress at the Presbyterian church here will probably continue for several days yet. Rev. Dowell Fleming, of Memphis, formerly of this county, is assisting Rev. J. C. Tate, the pastor, in the meeting. There are two services each day—morning and evening, and large crowds are regularly in attendance.

Mrs. Rebecca Cook, widow of the late William C. Cook, died at her home near Rose Hill, last Thursday, after a brief illness, of peritonitis. She was about 55 years old and leaves twelve children. Her husband preceded her to the grave just four months ago. The interment took place at the old Mass burying ground Friday.

Hunters report quail scarcer in this section than for many years. Maxey Braine, son of J. L. Braine, and Adlai Stevenson, son of Mrs. M. A. Stevenson, left this morning for Texas, where they will reside in future. Several parties from Montgomery, Tenn., accompanied them and the crowd will make the trip overland.

A GENEALOGICAL JOKE.

Was on an Englishman Who Had Applied for a Coat of Arms.

A genealogical joke, apropos to made-to-order pedigrees, is found in the Cornhill: A man applied to the college for a coat of arms, and was asked if any of his ancestors had been renowned for any singular achievement, but could recollect nothing. "Your father?" said the herald, aiding his memory. "Your grandfather?"—your great-grandfather? "No," returns the applicant, "I never knew that I had a great-grandfather, or a grandfather. 'Of yourself' asks this creator of dignity. 'I know nothing of myself,' returned the man 'only that being once locked up in Ludgate prison for debt, I found means to escape from an upper window. I procured a cord, fixed it round the statue of King Lud, on the outside of the building, and thus let myself down.' 'I have it,' said the herald—'lineally descended from King Lud! and his coat of arms will do for you.'"

Awarded Damages.

Electricity from a traveling crane injured one of the workmen in a large concern which builds steam engines. He sued the company for damages and has recently obtained a decision in his favor, in the Rhode Island supreme court. The men have been shocked a number of times, and rubber gloves have been furnished to them. The court held that the insulation between the motor and the hauling chain should be so complete that its use would involve no risk of injury by electricity.

The latest improved machinery has been purchased for the mill and an experienced millwright of Indianapolis, Ind., has already begun the work of putting it in place. The mill will have a capacity of 40 barrels per day and the enterprise will prove a great convenience to the people of that section.

UP TWO CENTS.

Price of Coal Advances and Further Increase Anticipated.

The price of coal is advancing throughout this section. In Hopkinsville the price has been advanced two cents per bushel. The price delivered in the house is now twelve cents for lump. A further advance is anticipated before winter sets in.

Evan Settle Dead.

Owenton, Ky., Nov. 17.—Congressman Evan Settle died at his home here yesterday evening at 5 o'clock of heart disease.

The funeral of Congressman Settle will take place Sunday. His wife is seriously ill here, and his secretary is in a hospital at Louisville.

There is already talk of his successor. James Andrew Scott, of Frankfort; Judge Jere Morton, of Lexington, and John Allen are most prominently mentioned.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL

WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

Get it at all drug stores. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

MURDER CASE CONTINUED.

Examining Trial of Jack Mason Reset for Friday.

Farm for Sale.

I will, on Saturday, the 16th day of December, 1899, sell at Public Auction, on the premises at 11 o'clock A. M., and for the purpose of a division of the estate:

291 acres of fine farming land, situate in Todd County, Ky. 2 1/2 miles south of Fairview, and about 5 miles from Louisville & Nashville Railroad, at Pembroke, and being the farm formerly owned by B. Dover, deceased.

This farm is in a good state of cultivation over 200 acres of it being good tillable land, balance in timber, and has 60 acres of wheat now growing on same. It has a large, good dwelling house on it, well, cistern, two barns, stable, corn crib, and all other necessary out-houses, all being in good repair. Title perfect.

Full possession to be given January 1st, 1900.

This farm will be sold as a whole, and in parcels; and the bid, or bids, yielding the most money, will be accepted.

Terms: One third cash, when deed is delivered; for balance of purchase money purchaser to give two notes, in equal amounts, due, respectively, January 1st, 1901, and January 1st, 1902, and bearing six per cent interest per annum, from January 1st, 1900, until paid, with a lien retained on the land to secure the payment of the same.

Purchaser will be prepared to comply strictly with these terms.

For further information apply to J. W. DOWDER, Executor of B. Dover, deceased, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Thoroughly Parisian.

The cast of people representing the various characters in "Mr. Plaster of Paris" is a good one, and the play is said to be thoroughly Parisian in its flavor, with witty dialogues, and funny situations, clever specialties and absurd cases of mistaken identity, which are all necessary factors in the construction of an up-to-date comedy, but are nevertheless void of the horse play, suggestiveness and double entendre which disfigure so many plays of this character. "Mr. Plaster of Paris" is booked for appearance at the Holland Opera House Thursday, Nov. 23, for one night only.

AN OLD-FASHIONED GENTLEMAN

"An old-fashioned gentleman"—that's what they said.
"That's his race"—like a ghost from the dead.
He seemed to the many. Among them he passed in honor—a gentleman born, to the last.
It was seen by the way he carried his head.
By his dignified mien and his soldierly tread.
By the scorn of all offers of wealth and of fame.
By his robe—never soiled in the shadows of shame.
"An old-fashioned gentleman"—that's what they said.
"The last of his race"—like a ghost from the dead.
"An old-fashioned gentleman" Well for the ways
Where we walk in these thorny and weary days.
That such are beside us, with souls that are white
As they drift with the dreams down the valleys of Night.
They speak from the past; they are true to the last.
Like the oaks of the forest they brave every blast.
The same in misfortune as in the bright gleam
Of years that were music and passed like a dream.
"An old-fashioned gentleman"—that's what they said.
"The last of his race"—like a ghost from the dead!

THE REAL HIAWATHA

It was early in the spring of 1881, just previous to the assassination of President Garfield, that the writer received the appointment of government teacher among the Chippewa Indians of the Lake Superior district. During a sojourn of several years among these historic people he had every opportunity of studying their habits and customs, of hearing them tell in their own language the stories and legends of bygone days. Not the least interesting of these was the story of "Nanabozho," immortalized by the poet Longfellow under the name of "Hiawatha." There are some slight differences between the story told by the Chippewas and that published to the world by the poet, though the main points are the same. The legend is purely a Chippewa one, handed down from father to son, and in the classic poem referred to every Indian name and every Indian allusion is strictly Chippewa, with the exception of the names of the hero and heroine, "Hiawatha" and "Minnehaha," which are Sioux Indian names, the two persons being known to the Chippewas as "Nanabozho" and "Waubesaheeha." What Mr. Longfellow's idea was in thus depriving the Chippewas of their due honor can only be surmised. Probably he thought the names sounded more romantic or euphonious.

According to the Chippewa version, Hiawatha—or Nanabozho, as I shall henceforth call him—was born on the prairie of Manitoba. His mother died at his birth, and he was reared by his grandmother, old Nokomis. When he reached full manhood his grandmother one day called him to her and told him that he had a bitter enemy, who had done his mother a great injury, and that it was his solemn duty to find that man and kill him. To aid him in the accomplishment of this act she presented him with a pair of minjehawin, or magic mittens, and a pair of moosassiu, or magic shoes. All that night Nanabozho pondered over the old squaw's story, and before the sun had arisen he was well on his way west. The magic shoes enabled him to cover a mile at every step, so that it was not long before he found himself at the foot of the Rocky mountains. Gazing up and down the rugged peaks he espied his enemy, Kewaydin, away to the northeast, perched upon one of the loftiest summits. With stately tread Nanabozho forced his way to the foot of the mountain height and in a great voice recited to Kewaydin the wrongs done his mother, ending with his own fixed determination to avenge those wrongs by killing him. Kewaydin responded in mocking tones and told Nanabozho to "kill away," whereupon Nanabozho, with the aid of the magic mittens, seized a great rock and hurled it at Kewaydin, but he repelled it with one puff of breath, and it fell crumbling into dust at his feet. Then Kewaydin, angered at Nanabozho's act, tore up a tree by its roots and cast it at Nanabozho with terrific force, but the latter warded off the blow with his mittened hands, and the tree turned to tinderwood at his touch.

When the two braves thus found that neither could hurt the other, they formed a contract of peace and Nanabozho returned to his grandmother's wigwam. Long and anxiously the old woman watched for his return and when he announced to her the failure of his mission she became exceedingly angry. Chiding him for his want of courage to prolong the struggle with Kewaydin, Nokomis told him that for seven days and nights he must remain upon the banks of the Tahquahmon river, abstaining from food and drink during that time as a penance for his failure to carry out her wishes. Long and dreary was his lonesome vigil beside the dark waters of the Tahquahmon, and often he felt like rebelling against the orders of his grandmother, but he bravely stood the ordeal.

A relief to the monotony of the occasion came at last. It was on the fifth evening of his enforced fast, as the sun was nearing the western horizon, that Nanabozho's attention was attracted by the approach of a stranger coming toward him from the east. He was a man of magnificent figure, tall and squarely built, evidently one of a tribe of giants. His features, blanket and moccasins were all in yellow, presenting a startling appearance, to say the least. On nearing Nanabozho he spoke to him and said his name was Mundahmin, "The Yellow Man," and that he had wandered afar from the wigwams of his people. He then invited Nanabozho to wrestle with him, but the young Chippewa demurred, rightly thinking that he would be like a child in the hands of the giant. However, after considerable persuasion, Nanabozho reluctantly consented to wrestle. A few brief struggles and Nanabozho found himself prostrate upon the ground. On arising to his feet he discovered that the Yellow Man had mysteriously vanished. Not a sign of him anywhere, not even a footprint by which he might be traced.

All that night and the next day Nanabozho pondered over the strange visit, and wondered what it could portend. That evening, at about the same hour, Nanabozho was awestruck to see the form of Mundahmin again appearing from the east. After the customary greeting the Yellow Man again invited Nanabozho to wrestle, but, remembering his experience of the previous evening, he declined. However, the persuasive tones of Mundahmin overcame his scruples, and soon he found himself again sprawling upon the ground, and his visitor vanished, as into thin air.

Here was a condition of affairs certainly mystifying, if not startling. Who was this stranger and what could his repeated visits mean? At last a bright idea entered Nanabozho's mind—the magic mittens!

"If the yellow man comes back to-day and wants me to wrestle with him I will be prepared," soliloquized Nanabozho.

Sure enough at the same hour the next day Mundahmin returned. He was not a little surprised at the alacrity with which Nanabozho accepted his invitation to wrestle. Long and anxious was the struggle for the mastery, the sinewy bodies swayed to and fro. First one and then the other seemed to be gaining the ascendancy, when suddenly Nanabozho felt himself possessed of supernatural strength, for without apparently any effort he lifted Mundahmin above his head and threw him to the ground, where he lay perfectly motionless.

Then terror seized the heart of Nanabozho. Was Mundahmin dead, had he killed him? Kneeling beside the prostrate form he bent his ear to the heart. Not a sound, not a movement! What a predicament. Here was one evidently of a tribe of giants, whom Nanabozho had killed! So soon as he was missed by his people they would come in search of him and make war upon the Chippewas to avenge his death. Glancing anxiously around to see that there were no witnesses to the tragedy, Nanabozho threw the lifeless form over his shoulder and wended his way laboriously into the depths of the forest. After traversing several miles and assuring himself that he was not followed, he placed his burden upon the ground, and upon hands and knees he dug out a long, narrow grave. In this he deposited the body, covering it with the loose earth and again with dead leaves and branches, thus obliterating all traces of the silent dead. He next marked a nearby tree for future identification. Then he traveled wearily toward his grandmother's wigwam, his days of penance now being ended.

The sun was just peeping above the eastern hills as he raised the covering and sat quietly within, laying himself prone upon the ground. But sleep came not to his excited nerves, and all day he listened for the coming of Mundahmin's people in search of him. But they came not.

Early the next morning, unobserved, he sought the forest grave to see if it had been disturbed. No, all was as he had left it. His mind grew easier, and for several days he kept away from his buried secret. At the end of a week he again visited the grave and was surprised to find growing up from the center of it a stout green blade, about a foot in height. He watched the plant carefully, tending it every day until it had grown to

The stature of Mundahmin, when from out its sides grew yellow corn-cobs! Then Nanabozho was amazed beyond measure.

"See!" he exclaimed to himself. "Mundahmin, the Yellow Man, has come back to life again! I took him out of the animal world and now he has come back to life in the vegetable kingdom."

Reluctantly Nanabozho sought out the chief of his tribe and told him the events of the last few weeks. The old chief saw in the marvelous transformation the workings of the Great Spirit, the Kezha Muhmedoo, and at once ordered a solemn festival in honor of Mundahmin. And so, for years corn-cobs were held sacred by the Indians, and venerated in their religious exercises, while even to this day corn—though now used by them as by us—is known among the Chippewas as "Mundahmin, the Yellow Man!"—Chicago Record.

A WONDERFUL INSTRUMENT.

Pianoforte That Climatic Changes Cannot Affect.

The oddest of all pianos manufactured up to date will shortly start from San Francisco for a long tour of the world. With it will go its inventor and manufacturer, Moritz Rosenthal, the famous pianist, whose ingenuity has produced something really new under the sun.

This piano is anti-climatic—that is to say it is proof against all atmospheric changes that heretofore have assailed pianulating pianos. Tested carefully and thoroughly with all degrees of heat and cold, dryness and moisture, it has demonstrated that none of these conditions can affect its tone quality.

The inventor has "treated" it after prescriptions known only to himself. The piano, which is smaller than a small grand, has had all kinds of experiments tried upon it, until now it is perfected—neither the tropics nor the arctic can disturb its musical secretion. The length of the instrument is five feet, its width three feet. Beautifully polished rosewood will encase its mechanism and its sounding board was brought from Germany.

All of the 7,000 pieces used in its construction were handled by the musician himself during the many months that the piano has been building.

From San Francisco it will go to Australia, and then will tour through England, Germany, France, Italy. It will travel by train and ex-boat and possibly camel-back—for its owner proposes taking it to Africa and all kinds of out-of-the-way places.

A traveling overcoat of metal, lined with a layer of felt and one of champagne, flat on the bottom, rounded on the top and hermetically sealed, is provided for this medicated music-box.

Just how precious such an instrument as this will be to Moritz Rosenthal can be best understood by music lovers. The average piano is a tender instrument, but here is one that can stand any treatment.—N. Y. Journal.

YOU ARE A DEMOCRAT and, of course, want a Democratic newspaper. THE CHICAGO DISPATCH is the Great Democratic Weekly Newspaper of the Country. It advocates the re-adoption of the Chicago platform and the renomination of William Jennings Bryan.

There has never been a political campaign that will equal in importance that of the one to be fought next year. The Republican party, backed by the money power of this country and Europe, is alert and aggressive. Flushed with the victory of three years ago it will seek by every means in its power to maintain its supremacy.

Democrats must be up and doing. They must wage an unceasing war upon their enemies. In no better and more effective way can this be done than by the circulation of good, sound Democratic newspapers.

The publisher of THE CHICAGO DISPATCH, will send a copy of THE CHICAGO DISPATCH from now until Jan. 1st, 1901 for 50 cents.

If you are not already taking this great political weekly, send in your subscription at once. You should not only do this yourself, but you should induce all your friends to join you. By a little effort you can easily raise a club of ten or twenty subscribers. An extra copy for club of ten.

THE CHICAGO DISPATCH is endorsed by William Jennings Bryan and other Democratic leaders. Address THE CHICAGO DISPATCH,

KIRKMANVILLE GOT A SLICE.

Number Appropriations Made to Assist in Building Churches.

The Board of Church Extension of the Louisville Methodist Conference, in session at Bowling Green last week, made a number of appropriations to assist in building churches over the state. Among the amounts set apart was $100 for the Kirkmanville church. Rosebud church, Crittenden county, also got $50.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks Almanac.

There is no comparison between former editions, and this splendid Almanac for 1900, now ready. Printed in beautiful colors, on much finer paper, its 196 pages are packed with invaluable information on storms, astronomy and meteorology. It is illustrated with nearly 200 finest half tones and other engravings. This superb book would sell any where for fifty cents, but it costs only 25c a copy, and every subscriber to Rev. Irl R. Hicks' now famous paper, Word and Works, at $1.00 a year, receives this elegant Almanac as a premium. Word and Works is a recognized leader among the best family and scientific journals, while nothing of its kind can compare with the Hicks Almanac. One dollar a year is a nominal price for such unique and useful publications. Professor Hicks has justly, and of necessity, withdrawn his storm and weather forecasts from all free almanacs, having generously given his time and labor free for nearly twenty years. ## CAPT. BEARD'S WILL.

Text of the Document Admitted to Probate.

I, David R. Beard, a citizen of Hopkinsville, Christian county, Kentucky, being of sound mind and memory. Do make publish and declare the following instrument of writing to be my last Will and Testament, revoking all former wills by me made.

FIRST—My Executor hereinafter named is instructed to pay all my just and lawful debts and funeral expenses and set aside the sum of five or six hundred dollars for the purpose of erecting a monument for myself and family.

SECOND—I give and bequeath to my step-daughter, Johnnie Beard, the homestead place on which I now reside and bounded as follows: On the East by J. Polk Casler; on the West by Virginia street; on the North by Fourteenth street, and on the South by Fifteenth street, together with all the appurtenances thereunto belonging, which lot, improvements and appurtenances I value to her at five thousand dollars.

THIRD—In addition to above bequest, I give to my step-daughter, Johnnie Beard, seven hundred dollars ($700.00), which my Executor is instructed to pay her as follows:

In my Bank of Hopkinsville stock, one hundred and twenty-two (122) shares, which I value to her at twelve thousand two hundred ($12,200); in the First National Bank of Hopkinsville stock, fourteen shares, which I value to her at one thousand four hundred dollars ($1,400). All of above named stock, 136 shares, of one hundred dollars per value each, my Executor is authorized and instructed to pay over to her, and the remainder, three thousand and four hundred dollars, he is to pay her in such notes or other securities as may be in my possession at my death, and which are worth their face value.

I also give to my above named step-daughter, all my household and kitchen furniture, piano, beds and bedding, and all perishable property on the home place.

FOURTH—I give to John H. Cheaney, infant daughter of Jno. B. Cheaney, deceased, five hundred dollars, same to be paid to and held by a trustee appointed by a Court having jurisdiction in such cases. Said Trustee is to invest said sum at interest, which interest is to be added to the principal yearly and no part of same is to be paid to said Johnnie Cheaney until she becomes 21 years of age. Should my above named niece die before this bequest comes into her hands, then, it is my wish and will that said Trustees shall pay said sum to my niece, Lizzie Cheaney, of Henderson, Ky., or her surviving heirs.

FIFTH—I give and bequeath the remainder of my estate to my nieces and nephews named below, share and share alike, viz:

To Lizzie Cheaney, living in Henderson county, Ky., one share; to Sally Snorggrass, and Arabella Snorggrass, children of my sister, Hettie Beard Snorggrass, and living near Tipton, Mo., one share each; to Charles D. Cheaney, living in Gainesville, Texas, one share; and to James P. Cheaney, of Evansville, Ind., one share. Should any of the above named nieces or nephews die before distribution of my estate is made, then to their children or lawful heirs, said share or shares shall be paid.

SIXTH—My Executor hereinafter named is authorized and empowered by me to sell and convey by deed without any intervention of the Court, and all real estate owned by me at the time of my death and hereinafter shall be as legal and binding as if done by me in person during my life.

I suggest and request that all my real estate be sold at public outcry to the best and highest bidder on the following terms: One-third cash in hand, one-third in twelve months from date of sale and the remainder in eighteen months from date of sale.

The deferred payments to bear 6 per cent. interest from date until paid.

SEVENTH—I hereby name and appoint as my Executor R. H. Holland, of Hopkinsville, Ky., and request that the Court shall permit him to qualify without security.

It is my wish and request that my Executor retain Potree & Bowser as his legal Counselors and advisors.

February 14th, 1899.
D. R. BEARD.
Signed and acknowledged by the Testator in our presence and by each of us in the presence of the other—February 14th, 1899.

E. L. FOULKE.
IRA F. ELLIS.
I, David R. Beard, this day make the following Codicil to my will of February 14, 1899:

Since said will of February 14, 1899, was made and acknowledged the 122 shares of Bank Stock of the Bank of Hopkinsville have been reduced to 49 shares. My Executor is instructed to pay my step-daughter, Johnnie Beard, said shares at par value of $4.90 and also the two certificates of deposits of $2,430 each and numbered 43 and 243, and the sum of two thousand four hundred and forty dollars additional he is to pay her from any moneys that come into his hands from my estate, which several amounts above named amount to twelve thousand two hundred dollars, being the amount I valued the 122 shares of stock to her at.

My Executor is instructed to have the remains of my mother which are buried north of Hopkinsville, and of my brother John, buried at Salubria, removed and buried in my lot in Hopewell Cemetery, Hopkinsville.

My gold watch I give and bequeath to my nephew, C. D. Cheaney.

This April 7th, 1899.
D. R. BEARD.

The foregoing Codicil signed, and acknowledged by the Testator in our presence and by each of us in the presence of the other.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks Almanac.

There is no comparison between former editions, and this splendid Almanac for 1900, now ready. Printed in beautiful colors, on much finer paper, its 196 pages are packed with invaluable information on storms, astronomy and meteorology. It is illustrated with nearly 200 finest half tones and other engravings. This superb book would sell any where for fifty cents, but it costs only 25c a copy, and every subscriber to Rev. Irl R. Hicks' now famous paper, Word and Works, at $1.00 a year, receives this elegant Almanac as a premium. Word and Works is a recognized leader among the best family and scientific journals, while nothing of its kind can compare with the Hicks Almanac. One dollar a year is a nominal price for such unique and useful publications. Professor Hicks has justly, and of necessity, withdrawn his storm and weather forecasts from all free almanacs, having generously given his time and labor free for nearly twenty years.
